

Anita Maddox Jackson

As Economic Development Director for Baltimore Gas & Electric Company (BGE), Anita Maddox Jackson is responsible for collaborating with state and local economic development officers to retain and attract large commercial and industrial customers to the Central Maryland region. She is also BGE's Base Realignment & Closure (BRAC) liaison responsible for communicating information to insure utility infrastructure readiness.

Anita has varied experience in the areas of human resources, corporate philanthropy, marketing, supplier diversity and supply chain management. Anita chaired the Edison Electric Institute Supplier Diversity Committee where she led activities of a national group comprised of utility supplier diversity professionals.

This year, Anita was appointed president of Constellation Energy's (BGE parent company) newest business resource group – the Constellation African American Network. She is responsible for six committees – professional development, mentoring, membership/governance, community service, communications and logistics. Anita also serves on the Economic Alliance of Greater Baltimore's Advisory Council.

In 2004-05, Anita was selected to serve on the Governor's Task Force for MBE Reform to improve and create state-wide initiatives to enhance procurement opportunities for diverse suppliers.

A native of Maryland, Anita holds a Bachelor's Degree in Health Administration & Planning from University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) and a Master's Degree in Administrative Science from The Johns Hopkins University.

Anita is the immediate past President and nominating chair of the UMBC Alumni Association. She also serves as scholarship chair for the Patapsco River Chapter of The Links, Inc.

Anita resides in Baltimore County with her husband Everett Jackson.
